

The Wheels of Justice Grind Exceeding Slowly But they Grind...

By Michael J. Liles,
Executive Director

GRIND: reduce (something) to small particles or powder by crushing it.

"grind some black pepper over the salad"

Synonyms: crush, pound, pulverize, mill, granulate, crumble, smash, press

JUSTICE: just behavior or treatment.

"a concern for justice, peace, and genuine respect for people"

Synonyms: fairness, justness, fair play, fair-mindedness, equity, evenhandedness, impartiality, objectivity, neutrality, disinterestedness, honesty, righteousness, morals, morality.

It is amazing to consider that one of the enumerated rights of a defendant is a right to a speedy trial. Speedy? I can't help but wonder how often someone actually demands the timeframes that are created mentally when you consider the term "speedy" trial? One imagines a courtroom filled with fast-talking auctioneers barking out orders as quickly as they can form syllables. Actually, there are a number of things that can make a defendant want to exercise his right to a speedy trial.

- They haven't found the body yet.
- The DNA Labs are backed up 6 months.
- You have a partner about to commit an identical crime that you can't be guilty of as you are already incarcerated.
- They still haven't found the body...
- You are expecting another load of cocaine or money any day now...
- YOU actually want the State to accidentally go past the date so you can then quickly ask for the speedy trial thing.

There was such a case in Colorado recently. A man who was sentenced to a staggering 300 plus years for sexually assaulting six children. He was released after an appeals court determined that his right to a speedy trial had been violated. Michael McFadden, 46 years of age, was released from prison after the Colorado Supreme Court declined to hear the case. They did however dismiss the charges with prejudice. Obviously, it wouldn't be fair to try him twice!

A woman who said she alerted authorities years ago about McFadden's alleged crimes against children told a news station that she believed he was in Colorado Springs as of Thursday. She had heard he was living in homeless shelters trying to raise money for a bus ticket to Florida.

A bus ticket to Florida? Are you kidding me? WHERE in Florida? Pensacola? Tallahassee – Better NOT! I have Grandkids there! Jacksonville? Better NOT! Orlando is a no-go as well. I have two Grandsons in Orlando. We do not appreciate op-

Nearly Five Years Later, Donald Smith is Sentenced to Death

By Ray Tuenge, Jr.

Last month, Donald Smith was found guilty of kidnapping, raping, and murdering 8-year-old Cherish Perrywinkle. After his conviction, the jury had to make a decision: life in prison or the death penalty. Their decision would come nearly five years after her abduction and murder shocked the Jacksonville community.

Grainy surveillance video from a Northside Walmart would capture Cherish's final moments. Wearing an orange dress, she followed Donald Smith out of the Walmart and into his white van. The next morning, her half-naked body was found under a tree in a grassy marsh.

Hours before Cherish would be kidnapped, Smith met Cherish's mother Rayne Perrywinkle at a Dollar General on Edgewood Avenue. When Perrywinkle explained to Smith that her daughters needed new clothes, Smith offered her a $100 Walmart gift card if they agreed to drive with him. Perrywinkle agreed when she was told that Smith's wife was waiting for him at the Walmart. She was not aware that Smith had been released from prison only 21 days earlier.

Inside the Walmart, Perrywinkle shopped with Smith and her daughters for more than an hour. At several points, Cherish went alone with Smith to other areas of the store. Perrywinkle told police that she felt like it was safe because they were inside the store. After an announcement from the loudspeaker announced that the store would be closing shortly, Smith offered to buy food from the in-store McDonald's for Cherish. The surveillance video captures Cherish following Smith past the McDonald's and out into the parking lot.

When Perrywinkle went to check out, she realized that Smith and Cherish had disappeared and quickly called the police. "I hope to God he doesn't kill her. I hope to God he doesn't rape her," Perrywin-kle told the operator. "I don't understand why he would leave right now unless he's going to rape her and kill her. That's the only reason."

Six hours after Perrywinkle contacted the police an Amber Alert was issued with details of Smith's van. An officer working a traffic accident spotted a van matching the description and called for another unit to pull the vehicle over. Smith was arrested. Police received a tip that a van matching the description had been seen the night before parked near Highlands Baptist Church. Officers arrived to investigate and deployed a K-9 unit. Minutes later, Cherish's body was found, still wearing the orange dress from the night before.

Since Smith was indicted by a grand jury in 2013, seven trial dates have been set. Controversy over Florida's death penalty procedure has been a factor in trial delays for many cases involving the death penalty. In 2016, the U.S. Supreme Court struck down Florida's old death penalty law. A new law, requiring unanimous recommendation from the jury on death penalty cases, was enacted last March.

As a result of the rule changes, many questions surrounding the death penalty process were left unanswered. The decision allowed

More on Stand Your Ground

By Jay Howell

Our Florida appellate courts are now being called upon on a regular basis to interpret the consequences of the "Stand Your Ground" law. In a recent Tampa case, The Florida Supreme Court placed some limits on the ramifications of the criminal court's determination that the defendant was entitled to immunity as a result of the "Stand Your Ground" law.

The victim physically attacked the defendant without provocation at a local bar. In reaction to the victim's aggression, the defendant struck his face with a cocktail glass, resulting in permanent loss of sight in the victim's left eye. The state filed an Information charging the defendant with felony battery and the defendant moved to dismiss the case, maintaining that he was immune from prosecution under the Stand Your Ground law. The criminal court judge granted his motion and held him immune under the law. The criminal case was over.

The victim then filed a civil complaint against the defendant for battery and negligence. The defendant maintained that the civil court had no jurisdiction over him because of the immunity determination in the criminal case. The Florida Supreme Court, in deciding the case, relied on the part of the law that states that if the person is justified in using force then the individual charged with the crime is immune from criminal prosecution and from civil action for the use of such force.

The issue before the Supreme Court was - Does the Stand Your Ground law confer civil liability immunity to a criminal defendant based upon the immunity determination in the criminal case? One of the lower courts who had considered the case before it got to the Supreme Court maintained that the legislature must have intended a procedure with only one immunity determination and that determination (made by the judge in the criminal case) would be binding in the civil court. The Supreme Court of Florida disagreed

Help Families of Murdered Children Pass Curtis’s Law

By Patricia Ward

I will never forget the day those policeman came to my door to tell me that my son Curtis was dead. Your world is immediately flipped upside down and the pain grips you like nothing else you can imagine.

After the initial shock wears off, you want answers. As a parent, you need basic answers. Answers to questions like: Who is investigating my child’s case, and where are their belongings? As if the pain of losing my child wasn’t enough, I had to take on the additional stress and frustration of attempting to pry these very basic details out of the law enforcement agency investigating my son’s death.

In Florida, law enforcement agencies are not required to release any information about on-going murder investigations to anyone. My son’s investigation has been on-going for almost 20 years now. I had to get a lawyer to simply find out who was working on my son’s case! I would later learn that my experience was not unique. Other parents were struggling through the same process. Those who can’t afford legal counsel often give up.

This is why I am working with other parents of murdered children to create a law in Florida that would require law enforcement agencies to send a letter to the parent, legal guardian, or next-of-kin within 30 days of notifying them of their child’s death.

The letter would include information about: onsite police and paramedics, assigned investigators, the coroner’s name, where a child’s property and belongings are stored, and any available photos.

This would NOT be required if the child’s parent, legal guardian, or next-of-kin is a suspect or person-of-interest in the child’s murder investigation.

When a family faces the unthinkable, all they want is some type of closure. They shouldn’t have to spend weeks or months, or even retain legal counsel to get the basic information about their child’s case that can help our families begin to heal.

Please sign this petition today and help families like mine pass Curtis’s Law today.

portunistic pedophiles who want to visit the Sunshine State! Consider for a moment who his ultimate target victim was: a child! The police and prosecutors in Colorado had promised his original victims that if they would just tell them everything that happened they would be safe! One of the things they had to tell was that he [McFadden] had told them, “if you tell what I did, I will kill you!” Yet, they thought they were without remedy on Tuesday February 27, 2018 when they opened the gate to freedom?

Colorado Justices thought his rights were more important than six children’s personal safety? This could explain a lot about their stance on recreational marijuana. Talk about your Rocky Mountain High.

One of the alleged victims also came forward to speak. “It feels terrible because it can happen to a bunch of other kids. We tried our hardest to get him in [prison], and to help other kids to not get hurt and abused like we did,” said a victim.

Well said...by someone who understands what it is like to be victimized. Perhaps we would be better off if we put a different set of wheels on Justice. How about a set that would roll? Think about one last thought: Justice should be about equity, fair play, honesty, objectivity. When these things “grind,” it is the victims that become crushed, pounded and pulverized, crumbled, granulated and smashed.

It makes me want to pummel something...

Our monthly recognition for the best of the best

Sheriff Honors JSO's 2018 Employees Of The Year, Citizen Of The Year And Sponsors At Annual Ceremony

Sheriff Mike Williams hosted the 2018 Annual Meritorious Awards Ceremony February 2018 in the Police Memorial Building's Assembly Hall. This annual ceremony honors employees from each of the six categories who were recognized throughout the previous year.

The Merit Board, which is made up of the agency's Chiefs, selects the honorees based on their previous recognition as well as their continued contributions since they were first recognized.

At the annual ceremony Sheriff Williams said, "These individuals have set the bar for the Jacksonville Sheriff's Office, and in the spirit of the Olympics I'm going to refer to them as our 'gold medal' recipients. And it is only fitting that today I will be presenting them each with JSO's version of a gold medal."

He went on to say, "This ceremony stands for everything our employees believe in and strive for each day."

Also at the annual ceremony, the Sheriff presented his third "Citizen of the Year" award as Sheriff of Duval County. His selection for the 2018 "Citizen of the Year" is Bland Cologne, owner and president of First Coast Security.

Those JSO employees recognized at the ceremony are:

"Police Officer of the Year" Honorees: Detective Margaret M. Rhatigan and Detective Glenn L. Warkentien

Investigations Division/Cold Case

Detectives Margo Rhatigan and Glenn Warkentien of JSO's Cold Case Team earned the title as JSO's "Police Officer of the Year" honorees for their efforts that led to arrests in two high profile investigations: the 1998 abduction of newborn Kamiyah Mobley and the murder of Freddie Farah in 1974.

"Corrections Officer of the Year" Charles Carter

Jails Division / Pre-Trial Detention Facility

Carter was recognized as JSO's "Corrections Officer of the Year" for his direct role in several investigations that led to multiple felony arrests on both incarcerated inmates and members of the public who had been involved in the crimes.

"Civilian Employee of the Year" Account Technician Elizabeth Verwey

Homeland Security Division / Forfeiture & Warehouse

Verwey was named JSO's "Civilian Employee of the Year," but was unable to attend the February 15th ceremony. She was selected for this honor for her overall work performance and several instances of exemplary service and innovation.

"Reserve Officer of the Year" Reserve Sergeant Don J. Butler

Special Events Division / Police Reserves Section

Butler was recognized for his commitment to making Jacksonville a safer place to live through his work in JSO's Reserve Section and by being an active participant in Sheriff's Watch. In 2017, he volunteered nearly 2,600 hours as a Reserve Sergeant working in various areas of the agency. He has been instrumental in helping in shutting down 14 drug and/or prostitution houses in the Arlington area.

"Police Supervisor of the Year" Police Sergeant Jay L. Taylor, Jr.

Investigations Division / Missing Persons

Taylor earned the title of JSO's "Police Supervisor of the Year" for his leadership role during the successful recovery of several missing individuals. At Thursday's ceremony, Sheriff Williams spoke about two investigations, both "interference with custody" cases that Jay simultaneously supervised in early June 2017.

"Civilian Supervisor of the Year" Manager of Personnel Services Dustin Pringle

Human Resources Division / Time & Attendance

Pringle was honored for his efforts tracking employee work hours and costs in October 2016 when Northeast Florida was in a State of Emergency during Hurricane Matthew.

"Citizen of the Year" Bland Cologne

Owner and President, First Coast Security

Cologne was recognized for his support of military and law enforcement personnel in the community. Additionally, the Sheriff highlighted Cologne's support for First Coast Crime Stoppers and several non-profits in the community.

"There are no limitations to the support that he provides to this community. While he might not work here at JSO, he does live up to our mission statement of serving and protecting in partnership with our community," said Sheriff Williams.

A Message from Melissa Nelson in the 2017 Annual Report of the Office of the State Attorney

Thank you for your interest in the State Attorney's Office for Florida's Fourth Judicial Circuit.

We constantly strive to find new and better ways to communicate with the public. This Annual Report — a first for this office — is published with this aim in mind. Here, we highlight the progress we made in 2017 and outline our plans for 2018.

Throughout these pages, you will see the many initiatives we have implemented in the past year. Each is intended to improve public safety, while ensuring that we are fair, accountable, and transparent.

You will see how we have dedicated resources to target the most dangerous criminals plaguing our neighborhoods.

You will see how we have enhanced partnerships with the Jacksonville Sheriff's Office to combat gang violence; the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives to target gun crimes; and the U.S. Attorney's Office to strategically prosecute human trafficking cases and heroin/opioid overdose deaths.

You will also see how we have implemented more thoughtful approaches to our pursuit of justice, such as the increased use of alternative treatment courts and our support for giving law enforcement more latitude to issue juvenile civil citations.

We are looking forward to the year ahead. This next year, we will continue to bring innovative approaches to our work.

We are developing a Community Prosecution pilot program that will focus on solving problems in high-crime areas and developing relationships with the citizens who live and work in those areas.

We are improving our support of and communication with those most impacted by crime: victims.

We are researching how we can employ data-driven methods in our work.

It takes a team approach to achieve these results. I am humbled and inspired by the effort and dedication of the men and women in this office. Together, we are committed to improving the communities of Duval, Clay, and Nassau counties.

This report is just a sampling of the good work we have done. While not every case or person could be recognized, I would like to thank everyone for the hard work they do for the people of the Fourth Circuit.

And thank you for your continued support as we continue to serve you in the year ahead.

Ted Hires was the average businessman working 60 to 80 hours a week and looking out for himself until the day when he and his staff were robbed at gunpoint. As a victim of a crime, Ted found the criminal justice system worked harder for the criminal than the victim. As a result of his experience, Ted formed a (501(c)(3)), non-profit organization, Justice Coalition, which continues Ted's mission of assisting innocent victims of violent crimes in the Fourth Judicial court system. Since 1995, the Justice Coalition has been fighting crime every step of the way. Fugitives captured are through a partnership with local law enforcement agencies, the media, and citizen involvement.

The Book Shelf

By Ray Tuenge, Sr.

Because its mission is to advocate for and support victims of violent crime, the Justice Coalition strongly supports law enforcement and the justice system, including pushing for tough prosecution for violent crimes. Nonetheless, we recognize that that wrongful convictions do occur and that innocent persons wrongfully punished for crimes they did not commit are also victims. Here are three books that consider how such injustices occur in the American justice system.

Exonerated: A History of the Innocence Movement

By Robert J. Norris

According to recent statistics, in recent decades more than 1,800 people have been found innocent after being convicted of crimes for which they did not do. As a result, federal and state governments have passed laws to prevent such wrongful convictions. Lawyers and police have instituted changes to their practices. Moreover, advocacy organizations collectively known as the “innocence movement” have grown across the country. In his book, Exonerated: A History of the Innocence Movement, Robert J. Norris gives an in-depth look at the history of the innocence movement. He conducted interviews with key leaders such as Barry Scheck and Rob Warden. He also conducted field research into many major cases involving wrongful convictions in the United States. Norris also examines how and why the innocence movement happened in recent decades primarily as a result of scientific and technological advances. These developments lead to better investigative techniques that help to both catch and convict the truly guilty and to exonerate those who have been wrongly convicted.

Ordinary Injustice: How America Holds Court

By Amy Bach

Amy Bach is an attorney and investigative journalist. Her book, Ordinary Injustice: How America Holds Court, is based on her eight years investigating courtroom failures across America. She found that most injustices occurring in American courtrooms are simply due to incompetence and mediocracy resulting from the bureaucratic nature of the justice system. What she found was an assembly-line approach to justice: a system that rewards mediocre advocacy, bypasses due process, and shortchanges both defendants and victims to keep the court calendar moving. She describes public defenders who plead most of their clients guilty with little or no actual knowledge about their circumstances. She describes judges who set too-high bail for negligible crimes, as well as prosecutors who simply do not adequately pursue significant cases. The end result of such bureaucratic mediocrity is a court system that works together to achieve wrongful convictions. Rather than blaming purposeful evil-doers in the justice system or inadequate funding, Bach concludes that wrongful convictions are usually the result of a clubby legal culture of lazy bureaucratic compromise.

Although this book perhaps paints an overly negative picture of America's courts, Bach shows that vigilance is needed to insure that the rule of law is competently and fairly applied in the American justice system.

Blind Justice: A Former Prosecutor Exposes the Psychology and Politics of Wrongful Convictions

By Mark Godsey

A former prosecutor and attorney for the Ohio Innocence Project, Mark Godsey provides an in-depth and expert analysis for the many different reasons for wrongful convictions. He blames inherent human psychological deficiencies, amplified by a “tough-on-crime” attitude for most wrongful convictions. Godsey describes many such innate human psychological flaws – confirmation bias, memory malleability, cognitive dissonance, bureaucratic denial, dehumanization – in detail with concrete examples. He also gives an insider's view of the criminal justice system's internal political pressures. He contends that the fact that judges, sheriffs, and prosecutors are elected officials adversely influences how they handle their cases. In his view, defense attorneys cannot adequately represent clients because they are overworked and underpaid. And he believes that juries are too biased because they rely too heavily on police and expert witnesses to independently and fairly review and assess the evidence presented in court.

This book is perhaps too harsh to those charged with upholding justice who do not intend to wrongly convict innocent persons. Nevertheless, it is never wrong to be aware of and address these types of issues in the criminal justice system.

Steve Zona, President

for re-sentencing hearings in many cases and halted others that had not yet reached the death penalty phase. Perhaps the most unfortunate consequence of the ruling may be the toll that it took on victims waiting for trials to begin. The ruling essentially slowed the whole process to nearly a stand still.

Nearly five years after Cherish was murdered, Donald Smith was put on trial. Details from the medical examiner elicited an emotional reaction from the courtroom. The medical examiner herself needed to take a break while discussing Cherish’s injuries on the stand. It took the jurors only 12 minutes to find Smith guilty.

During the sentencing phase, prosecutor Mark Caliel contrasted photos of Cherish before and after her death, to underscore the cruelty of Smith’s crime. On February 22, after a couple hours of deliberation, the jury unanimously agreed to sentence Smith to death.

To be sure, the death penalty remains a controversial subject. While legalities and rules are being hashed out, the victims involved are left to cope with something that is completely out of their control. Once again, the rights of the victims seem to be secondary to those of the criminals. For them, the road seems unending. Hopefully for Rayne and her family they have found closure.

with that conclusion. The Supreme Court noted that in 2017 the Florida legislature amended the “Stand Your Ground” law, creating different burdens of proof for criminal and civil immunity. In the criminal court the State must prove by clear and convincing evidence that the defendant was not entitled to immunity. In the civil court the defendant must prove by a preponderance of the evidence that he is entitled to immunity in the civil case. “Clear and convincing” is a higher burden of proof. A “preponderance” of the evidence is often characterized as 51% of the evidence.

Because of these differences and other factors, the Supreme Court of Florida ruled that an immunity finding in the criminal case does not confer automatic civil liability immunity to a criminal defendant who is sued in civil court. The defendant in the civil case must assert and prove “Stand Your Ground” immunity in the civil case. The holding in the civil case may be different than the immunity finding in the criminal case. The case is Kumar v Patel and was decided by the Supreme Court of Florida on September 28, 2017.

We Must Protect Our Students

I would like to thank Governor Rick Scott and President Donald Trump for working tirelessly to make schools safe for students. Last month I joined Governor Scott and President Trump in two separate roundtable discussions about protecting students in Florida and nationwide—but we are not just talking. Action is imminent.

We must keep weapons out of the hands of the mentally ill. Threats against students have to be aggressively investigated. Schools need more resource officers now. I am working closely with leaders in the House and Senate on all these issues and more to ensure action this legislative session.

We need to amend Florida’s Baker Act to allow law enforcement officers to take guns away from mentally ill people the courts have deemed a threat. Florida needs a Gun Violence Restraining Order to keep weapons out of the hands of people who might enact the type of terror we saw in Parkland last week. My office is working with law enforcement on developing a secure-reporting app to allow students to anonymously report concerning behavior.

We must do all this and more to protect our students.

I was humbled this week to discuss these proposals with survivors of the Marjory Stoneman Douglas High School shooting. The courage and resolve of these students in the aftermath of such a horrific tragedy is inspiring.

These students are stepping up to protect their peers, and they are helping my office develop, design and name the secure-reporting app. I know these survivors will lead the charge to make our country stronger and our schools safer.

In the wake of this tragedy, emotions have run high and debates have raged—rightfully so. I believe these conversations are important. I also believe we are stronger when we work together. My plea and my prayer is that we put politics aside and enact solutions that will strengthen our union.

Working together, this month, our state took quick action to secure Florida schools and protect students. I am extremely proud of Governor Rick Scott and every member of our legislature who voted in favor of the Marjory Stoneman Douglas High School Public Safety Act, to make sure what happened in Parkland, less than a month ago, never happens again.

This legislation provides $400 million to hire more school resource officers and increase mental health services, gives law enforcement more authority to keep weapons out of the hands of mentally ill people courts have deemed a threat, bans bump stocks, raises the age to purchase a firearm and more crucial steps to keep students safe.

It also provides funding for my office to create a secure-reporting app to allow students to anonymously report concerning behavior. Students who survived the shooting are helping us develop, design and name the app.

I am in awe of these students and the parents who lost children in this horrific attack. While their grieving will last a lifetime, they fought through the pain and took immediate action. Days after the shooting they headed to Tallahassee to demand change.

It’s because of them, less than a month after the shooting—at least for a brief moment—grieving turned into celebrating, as the state legislature brought change in the name of their children and Governor Scott signed the bill into law.

This bill is not perfect, and sadly it will not bring back the 17 lives lost in the horrific school shooting, but the safety of our children is not a political issue—it’s simply the right thing to do. Republicans and Democrats put politics aside and passed historic school safety changes and I am so proud of what these survivors have accomplished.

The Honorable Rick Scott
Executive Office of the Governor
400 South Monroe Street
Tallahassee, Florida 32399

Dear Governor Scott:

I am writing to endorse the Justice Coalition’s request for funding in the FY 18-19 state budget. This funding will allow the Justice Coalition to continue to advocate for innocent victims of violent crime, educate victims about their rights in the justice system and work with law enforcement to make Florida communities safer. I have seen this work firsthand and am pleased to have them working with us in Jacksonville.

The Justice Coalition is a grassroots 501(c)(3) nonpartisan, nonprofit organization. It currently advocates on behalf of innocent victims of crime in the Greater Jacksonville Metropolitan area. The Justice Coalition has served as advocates in numerous capacities. From the beginning of our awareness that a fellow citizen has become a victim, the Coalition serves as a liaison between the victim and their families to the media, our police department and they follow the case all the way through sentencing if the crimes are successfully prosecuted. They are even still engaged during appeals!

Past state funding, along with collaboration with the State Attorney’s Office, Our Agencies and other nonprofits, businesses and volunteers, have allowed this worthwhile, and much needed organization. The Justice Coalition helps thousands of crime victims by providing services specific to their immediate and future needs. Funding in the state budget for FY 18-19 will ensure the Justice Coalition is able to continue some of their efforts on behalf of innocent victims in our state.

Thank you for seven great years of leadership and for your steadfast efforts to keep Floridians safe.

Sincerely,

Mike Williams, Sheriff
Duval County, FL

Gov. Rick Scott Signs Marjory Stoneman Douglas High School Public Safety Act

Following a meeting with the families of victims of the shooting at Marjory Stoneman Douglas High School, Governor Rick Scott last month signed SB 7026, the Marjory Stoneman Douglas High School Public Safety Act. This legislation makes significant reforms to make Florida schools safer, while keeping firearms out of the hands of mentally ill and dangerous individuals.

The Marjory Stoneman Douglas High School Public Safety Act includes the following provisions:

Keeping Guns Away from Dangerous and Violent Individuals

Creates “Risk Protection Orders,” which allows a court to prohibit a violent or mentally ill individual from purchasing or possessing a firearm or any other weapon. If a law enforcement officer believes that a person poses a danger to themselves or others by possessing a firearm, they can petition a court to have the individual immediately surrender the firearm and prohibit them from possessing or purchasing firearms;

Allows law enforcement to seize firearms when a person has been detained under the “Baker Act.” Also prohibits a person who has been “adjudicated mentally defective” or who has been “committed to a mental institution” from owning or possessing a firearm;

Requires all individuals purchasing firearms to be 21-years-old or older. Exceptions are included for the purchase of rifles and shotguns by law enforcement officers, correctional officers, active duty military members and all members of the Florida National Guard and United States Reserve Forces. Also, licensed firearm dealers are prohibited from selling or transferring any firearm to a person younger than 21 years of age;

Establishes enhanced criminal penalties for individuals who make threats to schools, such as social media threats of shootings or bombings;

Bans sale or possession of bump stocks; and Creates a three-day waiting period for all firearms sales. This does not apply to law enforcement officers, correctional officers, active duty military members or members of the Florida National Guard or United States Reserve Forces who are purchasing a rifle or shotgun. The waiting period does not apply to the purchase of a rifle or shotgun for those who have completed a hunter safety course and possess a hunter safety identification card, or anyone who is exempt from the hunter safety course requirements and holds a valid Florida hunting license.

$400 Million Investment to Keep Students Safe & Enhance Mental Health Treatment

Provides $162 million for safe-school officers and requires a safe-school officer at each school in the state. Safe-school officers must be sworn law enforcement officers;

Creates the Coach Aaron Feis Guardian Program under the purview of locally-elected sheriff’s offices. Participation in this program is 100 percent voluntary and optional and does not allow classroom teachers to carry firearms with exceptions made for those involved in Junior Reserve Officer Training Corps (JROTC), current or retired armed service members and current or retired law enforcement officers. Participation in the Coach Aaron Feis Guardian Program must be agreed upon by the locally elected school board members and the local sheriff’s office. Each member of school personnel must complete 132 hours of comprehensive firearm safety and proficiency training to be eligible for participation in the Coach Aaron Feis Guardian Program;

Requires mandatory active shooter training in schools every semester. Students, district school safety specialists, threat assessment teams, faculty, staff and designated first responders must participate in these drills;

Provides $99 million to address specific school safety needs within each school district. This includes school hardening measures such as metal detectors, bulletproof glass, steel doors and upgraded locks. The Florida Department of Education (DOE) will establish the Office of Safe Schools and will work in consultation with sheriffs and police chiefs to approve school safety plans and provide school hardening grants to school districts;

Increases the sharing of information between sheriff’s offices, the Florida Department of Juvenile Justice (DJJ), the Florida Department of Children and Families (DCF), the Florida Department of Law Enforcement (FDLE) and any community behavioral health providers to better coordinate services and provide prevention or intervention strategies. In addition to the legislation, the Governor will also direct DCF Secretary Mike Carroll to establish a process between DCF and each sheriff’s office in Florida to better collaborate and coordinate services for those most in need;

Establishes a new, anonymous K-12 “FortifyFL” suspicious activity reporting tool, which would allow students and members of the community to anonymously report dangerous threats through a mobile app;

Provides $75 million for dedicated mental health counselors to provide direct counseling services to students and youth mental health assistance training. Every student in Florida will have access to a mental health counselor;

Requires every school in Florida to have a threat assessment team with expertise in mental health counseling, academic instruction, law enforcement and school administration to meet monthly to review any potential threats to students and staff at the school;

Requires crisis intervention training for all school resource officers;

Establishes the Marjory Stoneman Douglas High School Public Safety Commission to investigate system failures in the Parkland school shooting and prior mass violence incidents and develop recommendations for system improvements; and Provides $28 million to expand mental health service teams statewide to serve youth and young adults with early or serious mental illness by providing counseling, crisis management and other critical mental health services.
